THIS Company is formed for the purpose of working Locomotive Machinery for pressing and baling Cotton, upon the principle patented by Mr. C. G. Wilson, C. E., who has been for some years connected with engineering operations in India.

The invention consists of a Locomotive Hydraulic Cotton Press, running either on railways or common roads. The engines will proceed to the stations on the lines of railway near the Cotton Districts, where they will, under European superintendence, press into bales, wholly or partially, as may be required, the cotton brought in or stored there; the bales thus pressed will be conveyed to the port of shipment by the ordinary trains of the Railway Companies, thus ensuring a reasonable, quick, and safe means of transport of full loads of pressed bales, instead of carrying ordinary truck-loads of unpressed Cotton.

The machinery with Traction Engine arrangements can proceed by the ordinary main roads to central spots or depots near the Cotton Fields, to press wholly or partially into bales the cotton for despatch to the nearest railway station, and there will be impressed upon each bale a stamp, showing in what part of the country it had been pressed.

Large sums have been recently expended by the Government of the different presidencies on cotton roads, leading from the railway stations into the great Cotton Fields, and others are in course of construction; whilst a greatly increased breadth of land has been prepared for Cotton cultivation. In the Central provinces alone the area under cultivation has increased from 439,465 acres in 1862-3, to 579,775 acres in 1863-4, (vide Times of India 14th May) so that the present time is peculiarly favourable for commencing this Company's operations.

It is the intention of this Company to confine its operations at first to the pressing by Hydraulic Machinery, and baling the cotton. Bales thus prepared would be protected from loss and damage, whether forwarded by railway, or in the ordinary manner.

Under the Patent the machinery is available for pressing other substances than Cotton; also for driving Cotton Gins, expressing Oils from Seeds, &c., so that the Company may utilize the Machinery for these objects as found desirable.

The Press Companies of Bombay and Colaba have for years distributed in dividends and bonuses from 30 to 50 per cent. per annum, (vide Appendix) and highly profitable as this business has proved in Bombay, its extension into the interior will undoubtedly be attended by better results; but even at reduced rates the large profits from press packing are ample to cover very heavy contingencies, and enable the Company to pay large dividends.

The Directors have therefore determined to proceed vigorously with this undertaking, as calculated to realise in the fullest degree the expectations they have formed of its success.

Arrangements have been made with the Patentee for his Patent rights on terms advantageous to the Company, his remuneration being dependent on the success of the undertaking.

The Patent, with Drawings, Plans, and Model, have been examined and approved by competent Engineers, whose reports may be seen at the Temporary Offices of the Company.

The Memorandum and Articles of Association may be inspected at the Offices of the Solicitors.

Forms of Applications for Shares which may be had of the Solicitors, Brokers, or of the Secretary at the Offices of the Company, must be accompanied with a Banker's receipt for £1 per Share. If no allotment be made, the deposit will be returned in full.

The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony, with Branches at the most important places, in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased so rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only branches of Corporations, whose headquarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactorily with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to this Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Banks of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradoric system (so far as money is concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transactions of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shows that the largest profits are obtained by these Public Companies, which possess an interested local body of Proprietors, or Shareholders, whose support naturally forms a chief element of remunerative success.

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai, and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed, until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of NOTICE TO SHIPPERS OF OPIUM.—Shippers by this Company's Steamers are hereby warned that no Opium can be received on board bearing more than one mark, and that this mark must be legible and distinct, and must correspond with the one on the Shipping Order.

Much confusion has lately been caused by a practice, which has become common, of re-marking Chests which already bear other unobliterated marks and numbers, and in some instances Chests have been sent for shipment without any legible mark or number on them at all.

The ordinary precautions for identifying cargo are easily observed, and it is hoped that shippers will in future be careful to make use of them, otherwise, as before stated, their cargo cannot be received.

W. WANKLYN'S NEW PATENT HAND AND POWER MACARTHY GIN, WITH FLUTED IRON ROLLER.—The Patentee, in introducing this Gin to Public attention, begs to state that it is believed that the substitution of his Patent Iron Roller, with Grooves or Flutes cut in the Metal, will obviate the universal complaints which are made against the ordinary Rollers covered with Leather. The fine Spiral Grooves which are cut in the Metal itself, are of the most durable character, and being placed much closer together than they can be in Leather, enables the Gin to clean a much greater weight of Cotton, and in this respect will probably equal the Saw Gin, without injuring the Fibres. It strips the Seeds completely without crushing them, or damaging the Cotton in any way, nor will the Iron Roller yield to climatic influences as the Leather Rollers appear to do.

The Patentee is now prepared to grant Licenses for the use of his improvements, and as his Patent Iron Rollers can be made of any dimensions, those parties in Foreign Countries who have Macarthy Gins with faulty Rollers, can have them exchanged for the New Patent Iron Grooved Rollers, and are requested to make a direct application to the Patentee.

THE BOMBAY ALMANACK AND DIRECTORY.
FOR 1865.

THE Publishers of this Directory are anxious to obtain a correct list of Names of the European Inhabitants of the Bombay Presidency for publication in the forthcoming issue. This can, however, be accomplished only by individuals, whose names are incorrectly entered in last year's Directory, favoring us with their correct names and addresses; and those individuals whose names are omitted therefrom, and persons newly arrived, forwarding them to us. We beg the co-operation of the public in assisting us to obtain what is a desideratum in Bombay—a reliable list of the names of European Inhabitants.

The Bombay Gazette.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1864.

THE Bombay Post Office reached yesterday what we hope may be considered the climax of its woes. Unless, indeed, it were to stop work altogether, it could not well be placed in a more awkward predicament than was yesterday created by the general strike for higher wages of all the letter-carriers employed in the Island. The China Mail came in at 8 o'clock in the morning, but it was 12 o'clock before the letters were sent out for delivery, and even then they were taken by the Post Office clerks, the peons one and all refusing to deliver a single letter unless the Postmaster promised that their pay should be raised to Rs. 20 a month each. These peons are, it appears, at present in the receipt of wages varying from Rs. 6 to Rs. 10 a month, a sum which, in comparison with the general prices of labour in Bombay, must be pronounced an absurdly inadequate remuneration for the heavy work which letter-carriers have to perform. It appears that the men now on strike have not acted hastily or without giving the Postal authorities due notice of their desire to have the grievances which they suffered redressed. They appear, in fact, to have acted with a degree of patience and judgment which one would not have expected from native workmen. Some time ago, they sent in a memorial, representing without exaggeration their deplorable condition, to the local head of the department; and we must say that Mr. Garrett acted with great want of foresight and consideration for his subordinates in not at once, on the receipt of this memorial, formally demanding the increase of pay for the letter-carriers which he must have seen was required to maintain the efficiency of the Post Office. Nothing, however, was done; and the men, after waiting in vain for a long time to have some official notice taken of their prayer, had recourse to a strike—the only means of asserting his rights which the working man has at his disposal in countries in which all share in the government is denied him, the only mode of appeal from the tyranny of capitalists which is open to either the Indian or the English labourer. The chance of a strike having a successful termination in England is extremely slight. We have known many strikes at home, in most of which the working men generally seemed to have right on their side; but the capitalists were invariably too strong for them. What else indeed was possible in a country in which the principle of co-operation is yet almost undeveloped among the labouring class—so that, whenever one set of workmen strike in London, the employers can always swamp them by bringing another set from the next town—and in which the middle class, who govern the State, hold almost to a man the eminently comfortable doctrine for respectable members of society that it is a right and praiseworthy thing for wealthy merchants to form combinations in order to raise the price of corn or cotton, but a horribly selfish and wicked thing for working men to form combinations in order to raise the price of their own labour. In India, however, the working-man is much more powerful than in England; the social system of caste, though it would of course give way if strained to support clearly unfair demands, enabling him, when used judiciously, to compel his employers to give him what to many a poor man at home seems the almost unattainable summit of human felicity, "a fair day's wage for a fair day's work." The Bombay letter-carriers seem to us then to have acted rightly in striking for higher wages—though of course the example they have set will act very prejudicially to the interests of employers of labour (ourselves among others) by whom the increased cost of every kind of work is already felt as one of the most serious embarrassments that attend the carrying on of business in Bombay. We wish we could add that the effect of the strike would reach as far as Calcutta, and startle the official owls there who do nothing but blink and hoot in answer to all the prayers and remonstrances of Bombay. It is most unfortunate that the letter-carriers did not wait for an English Mail day, and strike work before the Governor-General's despatches had been sorted and sent off. That would have been a masterly manœuvre, which would have quite vanquished the Calcutta Government, and compelled them to acknowledge that the claims of at least one class of public servants in Bombay to increased pay can be no longer treated with serene contempt. In present circumstances, the inconveniences of the strike only affect Bombay, and the sole use to which they are likely to be put in Calcutta is to supply a subject for a column of profoundly ignorant twaddle in the Friend of India on the administrative incapacity of that unfortunate Bombay Government, which, with its hands tied and its mouth shut, is forced to stand idly by while every kind of thoughtless injustice is perpetrated, in its name, by a central authority in Simla or Calcutta which is about as well fitted to understand and satisfy the wants of Bombay at the present crisis of our affairs as the good people of Devonshire or Essex would have been to govern Melbourne during the first two or three years after the discovery of the gold-fields. It may perhaps be news to the Government of India, and more especially to Sir Charles Trevelyan, to be informed that there is hardly a class of public servants in this Presidency who would not, if they dared, follow the example of the Bombay letter-carriers. If peons and domestic servants find it impossible to live on their pay in a time when, as carefully prepared official statistics show, the ordinary prices of grain in several districts of the Presidency are actually higher than the extreme rates which ruled in the North West Provinces during the famine year, to what straits must the unhappy servant of Government find himself reduced, who, being still in the receipt of a salary which was fixed on its present scale about the year 1829, is now plundered at once by his tradesmen and by his own servants—being forced to increase the wages of the one class while he pays higher prices to the other, his own scanty salary remaining all the while a constant quantity! The great officials at Simla may think that this is a matter of small moment, and that they can take things easy with servants of the State whom they have in their power; but we can tell them that there is a spirit of bitter discontent swelling within these men's hearts which will not always be repressed. The Government will one day—an evil day for them—have to reap what they have sown. Even now, with the exception of the bloated capitalists whom Finance Ministers fawn upon, and to conciliate whom the Income Tax is to be abolished next year, we do not believe that there is one contented subject of Government in this Presidency. What other feeling indeed than one of vehement indignation and disgust can any honest man conceive at the sight of officers and soldiers whose strong right arms reconquered India—and civil servants of all grades whose zealous administrative labours have at least helped to bring the country to that state of commercial prosperity which Sir Charles Wood seems to suppose is the result of his own unaided efforts—left to prolong a wretched existence on a miserable pittance, and to be the mark for the jeers of rich traders who, but for these men, would long ere this have had their lives and property placed at the mercy of Mahratta freebooters or Mussulman tyrants? One can hardly suppose that the Bombay Government has put the case of its servants before the Government of India so strongly as it might be put; or even Sir Charles Trevelyan would ere this have been shamed into granting at least a portion of the desired relief.

THE London Spectator:—"Dr. Alfred Taylor, commissioned by the Privy Council, has sent in a report on the means of committing murder by poison which are allowed to exist in England. He says that poison enough to kill [illegible] can be purchased anywhere for threepence, and that the careless dispensing of poisonous drugs is the cause of most frightful accidents. As to laudanum, it appears to be sold wholesale, single shops often in the Marshland supplying three or four hundred customers every Saturday night. Retail druggists often dispense 200 lbs. in one year, and one man complained that his wife had consumed 100*l.* in opium since he married. It is a mistake to consider the practice confined to the marshy districts. We do not believe there is a town in England where some one chemist does not on Saturday night load his counter with little bottles of laudanum, and we were assured by a wholesale drugdealer that he could and did sell it in the eastern counties to the extent of some thousands of pounds' weight in a year. This gentleman, an old and keen observer, declared that the demand had sprung up shortly after the introduction of teetotalism, and that it would be found to vary everywhere in accordance with the progress or decline of the system of total abstinence."

PRISON POETRY.
To the Editor of the Times.

SIR,—In my inspection through the prison today, I came across the following lines written on the slate belonging to a prisoner now in this prison, under sentence of penal servitude for the second time, and who has repeatedly been convicted besides. I have taken the liberty of forwarding them to you.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant.
August 30. R. E. R.

"I cannot take my walks abroad,
I'm under lock and key;
And much the public I applaud,
For all their care of me.
Not more than others I deserve,
In fact, much less than more;
Yet I have food while others starve,
Or beg from door to door.
The honest pauper in the street
Half naked I behold;
While I am clad from head to feet,
And covered from the cold.
Thousands there are who scarce can tell
Where they may lay their head;
But I've a warm and well air'd cell,
A bath, good books, good bed.
While they are fed on workhouse fare,
And grudged their scanty food;
Three times a day my meals I get,
Sufficient, wholesome, good.
Then to the British public health,
Who all our care relieves,
And while they treat us as they do
They'll never want for thieves."

THE London Times:—"The following relates to the circulation of Australian sovereigns. The Act to which the writer refers became law on the 28th of July, 1863, but is merely permissive. It does not declare the Australian sovereign to be a legal tender in the United Kingdom, but authorizes Her Majesty, with the advice of the Privy Council, to take that step. The reason for nothing having as yet been done is believed to consist in some question of detail between the colonial Government and Mr. Gladstone, and, whatever may be the cause, it is much to be regretted that delay should have occurred, since, next to the diffusion of its language over the globe, one of the greatest advantages to a commercial nation is for its coins to be universally known as a circulating medium:—

"Sir,—On the 28th of July, 1863, an Act of Parliament was passed concerning Australian sovereigns.

"What this Act of Parliament means I cannot find out. I have likewise shown it to many persons learned in legal documents, as well as to clerks in the House of Commons, but all with the like result—no one can interpret this wonderful Act.

"In my business I continually take Australian sovereigns, which I am obliged to sell at a loss. It will [illegible] sovereign [illegible] neither bankers, railways, nor merchants will take them.

"The unfortunate colonist who arrives at any of our ports with these coins will find himself seriously mulcted if it be requisite for him to make use of them.—Yours obediently,

THE same:—"Among the fiscal arrangements adopted by Mr. Wilson in India in 1860 was the imposition of an export duty of 6*l.* per ton on saltpetre, one of the most important products of Bengal. Export duties having long been condemned by all commercial authorities, it was only on exceptional grounds that the measure could be justified, and these grounds consisted in the assumption that saltpetre was an exclusively Indian product, and that hence there was no danger of a destructive competition from other countries being engendered by an increase of price. It was pointed out at the time, however, that there were already known substitutes manufactured in France and elsewhere from the abundant quantities of nitrate of soda obtained from South America, which, with the bounty thus virtually granted by the tax on the Indian article, would be able gradually to extinguish our trade. One of the most influentially-signed memorials ever framed by London merchants was accordingly addressed to Sir Charles Wood on the subject, but it was apparently met by at that date the stereotyped plea in defence of each successive violation of recognized principles wherever India finance was concerned, that money must be had and that there was not time or power to discriminate between a right course and a wrong one. The tax was therefore maintained, and in the four years that have since elapsed the predicted consequences have been witnessed. The artificial manufacture is rapidly driving the native Indian product out of all the continental markets, and notwithstanding the wars that have been carried on, the stocks in the London market have accumulated beyond all former precedent, and are unsaleable except at a heavy loss. Under these circumstances further representations have recently been pressed upon the India-office on behalf of our merchants, but as commercial incongruities such as since the enlightenment of the free trade epoch would not have been tolerated in England for an hour have been introduced and upheld as regards India with unassailable complacency, the hopes are not strong that any action will be taken while action may yet be serviceable."

TWO men, rejoicing in the names of Alexander Cousens and John King, respectively, were amusing themselves in the neighbourhood of Agiary Lane, Kalbadevie, on Monday night last, by committing a series of assaults on inoffensive persons. Mr. Constable Jackson as soon as he was informed of their doings took means to put an effectual stop to the same, and upon their being placed before Mr. Oliver at the Fort Police Office a charge of assault committed by them upon the person of a Parsee was fully proved and his Worship fined them Rs. 10 each and ordered Rs. 5 out of the fine to be paid to the complainant. They were then charged with assaulting a police sepoy while in the execution of his duty, when upon being convicted they were again fined Rs. 10 each, Rs. 3 out of which was ordered to be handed over to the sepoy as a kind of plaster for the injuries he had sustained on the occasion.

THE POONA MUNICIPALITY.—A Special General Meeting of the Poona Municipality was held in the Office of the Commissioners on the 29th ultimo, C. R. Ovans, Esq., 1st Assistant Collector and Magistrate in charge, Poona, presiding. The first business transacted was the consideration of an agreement, on the part of the Municipality, that in the event of Government permitting the road from Gosweepoora Bridge to be extended through the Civil Hospital compound, to abide by the conditions proposed, viz. the erection of a dwarf-wall, surmounted by a railing, to the windward of the Hospital, and the construction of certain other conveniences. Several letters were ordered to be written upon a variety of subjects. With the following plucky incident mentioned in the proceedings, we close our Report:—
"Read the Magistrate's English endorsement No. 2,3[illegible] of the 23rd ultimo, forwarding copy of the following Government Resolution No. 1578, of the 9th idem, for the information of the Municipal Commissioners, with reference to his communication No. 1852, of the 26th July last:—
"The Health Officer, although paid for out of Municipal Funds should be independent of the Commissioner, that is as their adviser, but not their servant. His duties as such have for their object the improvement of the sanitary condition of the local community, and he will act on their behalf to urge on the Commissioners, or executive body, measures of reform which but for him would probably not be attended to."
Resolution.—With reference to the Government Resolution, No. 1578, dated 9th September 1864, the General Committee respectfully decline the services of the Sanitary Officer on the terms laid down therein. They are of opinion that such an officer should be appointed, without any restrictions, solely by the Commissioners, who should regulate his salary and duties. They further respectfully urge that it would be contrary to the spirit of all Municipal measures, to support out of Municipal funds, an officer who is to be independent of the Bench. The Commissioners regret that their present funds do not admit of the appointment, on their part, of a Sanitary Officer. When Government have sanctioned the new scheme of taxation and grants &c., the Commissioners will be happy to take the appointment of a Sanitary Officer into their early consideration.—Deccan Herald.

MR. RUSSELL AND THE "NATIVE OPINION."—The subjoined Official Correspondence is taken from the Elphinstone School Paper for this month:—

MEMORANDUM.—No. 745 OF 1864-65*

Mr. G. Russell, Head Master of the Rutnagherry High School, officially brought to my notice, in a letter dated the 1st ultimo, an attack on his character as a Schoolmaster, which had appeared in a newspaper called Native Opinion on the 15th May. Mr. Russell requested that inquiries might be instituted with a view of establishing the truth or falsehood of the charges in question.

2. I accepted Mr. Russell's challenge, being resolved that, if the charges were proved true, Mr. Russell must abide by the consequences of having officially called attention to them; and if, on the other hand, they appeared to be groundless, I would take steps to publicly exonerate Mr. Russell.

3. I accordingly referred the matter to Mr. Boswell, the Acting Collector of Rutnagherry, saying that I should esteem it a great favour if that gentleman would institute the inquiries asked for by Mr. Russell.

4. Mr. Boswell, after going into the matter, has given his opinion to the effect that the main charges, or rather insinuations, of Native Opinion against Mr. Russell are far too vague to deserve notice, and that the only definite and tangible charges against him (viz. 1st, that certain Assistant Masters resigned on account of bad treatment by Mr. Russell; and 2nd, that the School is fast going down) are devoid of truth.

5. It seems clear that the Assistant Masters, who have left the school, have done so to get better pay, or for other private reasons unconnected with Mr. Russell.

6. If the charge that the Rutnagherry School is "fast going down" means that the School is going down in numbers, this is disproved by statistics, which show that the average attendance during the past twelve months has been greater than the average of the two years preceding Mr. Russell's appointment.

7. If it means that the school is declining in proficiency, this charge is not borne out by the opinion publicly pronounced by Mr. Coke, after his last annual examination of the school.

8. Besides applying to Mr. Boswell, I have myself instituted private inquiries, which if there had been anything definite to bring against Mr. Russell, would certainly have resulted in my hearing of it. But I am satisfied in my own mind that there is nothing of the kind.

9. I am glad of this result, for when Mr. Russell came to this country, he brought me a letter from Mr. Matthew Arnold, the well-known Educational Inspector in England, who said that Mr. Russell was the best Schoolmaster in the whole of his division. I have also seen a letter from a member of the Bombay Civil Service to Mr. Howard, expressing a very high opinion of Mr. Russell's qualifications. I think Mr. Russell has been in a difficult position at Rutnagherry, and that he has been misunderstood by the people.

A. GRANT,
Acting Director of Public Instruction.
Bombay, 1st September 1864.

* This document arrived too late for insertion in last month's School-Paper, and thus, much to our regret, some delay has occurred in making public the ample justification and vindication of Mr. Russell's conduct and character therein contained.—Ed. E. S. P.

STRIKE OF THE POST OFFICE LETTER CARRIERS.

THE public was put to considerable inconvenience yesterday morning in consequence of the whole of the letter-carriers in connection with the Bombay Post Office striking en masse, for an increase of pay. The delivery of letters and papers, which arrived yesterday morning by the China mail, was delayed in consequence of this untoward event; but it was at length effected by improvising letter-carriers from amongst the clerks or any other of the subordinates who could be laid hold of in the establishment at the moment. We are told that the demands of the letter-carriers are somewhat exhorbitant, and that they require their salaries to be increased to Rs. 20 per mensem. We have reason to know that the letter-carriers and others employed in the Bombay Post Office some time ago forwarded a petition to Government praying for an increase of pay, but as the affair had of course to go through the ramifications of the Circumlocution Office, nothing in reality has yet been done in the way of redressing the grievances complained of by the men. We understand that there are 40 letter-carriers in the Bombay Post Office who receive Rs. 10 per month, 4 bhanghy-carriers who are also in the receipt of the same amount of pay, 10 letter-carriers of a lower grade at Rs. 8 pay, and Rs. 1-14 batta. At Mahim and Bandora there are four letter-carriers who receive Rs. [illegible] including batta; three peons at Rs. [illegible] menial servants 15 packers at Rs. 7-14, and a number [illegible] low, when it is at from Rs. 6 to 7 exclusive of batta. [illegible] taken into consideration that all letter-carriers must be able to read and write; that they are on duty from 7 in the morning till about the same hour in the evening; that they are held responsible for the payment of the postage on all letters [illegible] which are sent bearing (we believe they have to pay the sum in advance) and are entrusted with [illegible] registered letters, it is at once evident that they are wretchedly underpaid. How it can be expected that these men can remain honest, in these hard times, amidst so much temptation, is more than we are able to account for. We are now informed that just about the time that the letter-carriers struck work, a communication has been sent by the Post Master General of Bombay to some of the local officials, intimating, that he has been instructed by the Director General of Post Offices in India, to obtain information from them as to the proper rate of remuneration to be paid to the lower grades of Post Office servants. It is, therefore, to be presumed that after a few months more spent in enquiry, and a few more reams of foolscap scribbled over and no end of red-tape expended, that the powers that be—at Calcutta—will begin really to think seriously of the matter. But long before that time arrives the whole of the present, or perhaps we should rather say the late, staff of letter-carriers will have entered the service of the Bombay Reclamation, or Elphinstone Land Companies at salaries very considerably higher than they have been in the habit of receiving from the State. It is high time that Bombay had the entire management of her Post Office exclusively in her own hands.

FORT POLICE OFFICE.—5th October.

(BEFORE N. W. OLIVER, ESQ.)

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY.—Two diminutive Mussalman urchins, apparently about twelve years of age whose chins were resting on the top of the dock, named respectively Seedoo Meya Mahomed Jan and Gooroo Meya Mahomed Jan were charged, at the instance of a Borah named Khoodabux Peer Ahmed with stealing the sum of Rs. 5 in cash from a box wherein he had deposited the same. Upon the prosecutor charging the prisoners with the theft of the money, Seedoo at once admitted his guilt and produced a rupee and a quarter and some odd pice, also some trifling articles which he had purchased with the remainder of the stolen cash. The other boy denied being implicated in the theft. His Worship convicted Seedoo, and ordered him to be sent to the David Sassoon Reformatory, and discharged the other prisoner.

PETTY THEFT.—Ahmed Khan Isool Khan and four other Mahomedan boatmen, were placed at the bar, charged with stealing a quantity of dhall and dried fish, being part of the ship's stores belonging to the Bombay Castle. It appeared from the evidence adduced that the prisoners were employed by a Parsee dubash to convey some rice, dhall &c. to the ship, and while he went on board they managed to take a quantity of dhall out of a bag and secrete it under the galley of their own boat, where it was afterwards discovered by the Parsee. The prisoners denied their guilt, and said that a little of the dhall fell out of the bag, but that they had very carefully replaced it, and that they had purchased the fish. His Worship convicted them both, and fined them Rs. 10 each.

LAW.

HIGH COURT.—CROWN SIDE.
THIRD CRIMINAL SESSIONS OF 1864.
Ninth Day, Wednesday, 5th October.
(BEFORE THE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE HORE.)

His Lordship having taken his seat on the Bench at 10 o'clock, A. M., the following gentlemen were empannelled on the MORNING JURY.

MR. J. P. R. CESSFORD.—Foreman.

Messrs. J. A. Simpson; D. Mackey; D. Mackay; W. Swanseger; W. Maule; E. Atts; J. J. Annunciation; P. D'Cruz; Hormusjee Cursetjee; Luximon Bapshaw; and Tajoodeen Dulvie.

SENTENCE OF DEATH.—Ismail Ahmed, who was convicted of the wilful murder of his wife on Monday last, was yesterday called up for sentence. His Lordship in addressing him said:—After a long and patient hearing he had been found guilty upon evidence which in his opinion could have led to no other conclusion. He (the prisoner) had been found guilty of murdering his wife, one whom it was his duty to cherish and protect to the utmost of his power. Instead of doing so he had barbarously deprived her of life, and had, therefore, justly forfeited his own. His Lordship said he had no wish to add to the prisoner's mental sufferings, and would confine himself to the painful duty which his office imposed on him. He would at once proceed to pass the sentence of the law, which was that he be taken back from whence he came, and from there on a day to be hereafter appointed, to the place appointed for execution, and there hanged by the neck until he be dead.

THEFT.—John Frederick Crisp pleaded Guilty to the charge of theft. Mr. Barton said he had been asked to defend him, but upon looking carefully through the evidence, he could find no possible loophole. He had therefore recommended a plea of guilty. The prisoner's father had been a very worthy member of society and he himself had been held in respect here. It was the prisoner's first offence; he had received a good conduct ticket on leaving school, and the prosecutor, Mr. Duthie, wished to recommend him to mercy.
Mr. Duthie was placed in the witness box and stated that the prisoner bore a good character whilst in the Scottish Orphanage School. Upon leaving he was presented with a good conduct ticket, also a desk as a reward. He wished to recommend him to mercy.
His Lordship in addressing the prisoner, said he hoped this his first transgression would act as a warning through life to him, and that he would endeavour by future good behaviour to regain the good character he had, by this act, so tarnished. He had been guilty of a serious offence; but taking into consideration his youth, his former good character, and the recommendation to mercy by Mr. Duthie, he would be lenient in the sentence, which was that he suffer rigorous imprisonment for three months in the House of Correction.

ROBBERY.—Daniel Thompson, Henry George Simpson, and Charles Rax, pleaded not guilty, Nos. 1 and 3 to robbery, and No. 2 to abetment of robbery.
Thomas Madden, a Private in the 28th Regiment, said that on the 6th of September he went to the Duncan Road; he was dressed in a red tunic, and had on a leather waist-belt with regimental clasp. In the pocket of the tunic were Rs. 53 and three war medals. He went to a tavern; the money and medals were then safe. After taking some beer, he met prisoners Nos. 1 and 2 who took him to a house of ill-fame. From there they went to a second. No. 2 was sent for a bottle of wine with Rs. 2. Does not recollect if he brought it. On going out of the house he met prisoner No. 3, who said "go further on and we will get some liquor there." At that time Nos. 1 and 3 were with him; his waist-belt was then in the hand of No. 1. As they were going along, No. 1 seized him by the throat and No. 3 with a knife cut the pocket of the tunic and took the money and medals. He ran, and No. 1 gave him a shove into the road and disappeared. A sepoy took him to the European constable who went with him to find the men. They found No. 3 on the road, and next day he saw Nos. 1 and 2 in custody and recognized them. Neither the medals or waist-belt have been found. Witness had been drinking. Did not know the men before. Did not recollect seeing any European at the second house.
Goolab, a courtezan, said she lived in Duncan Road and knows prisoners Nos. 2 and 3, and remembers their bringing the prosecutor to her house. He was in liquor, and she sent him away and closed the door.
Luilum, another courtezan, said she knew Nos. 1 and 2. Remembered their coming to her house one night with a soldier, the prosecutor. He appeared to be sober. He took out some medals first from his pocket, and then Rs. 2 which he gave to the second prisoner, who went out. Whilst the soldier was in her room he took off his belt, and when he was about to leave No. 1 took the belt and they went out together.
Wamon Mundhur, a police sepoy, deposed to having met the prosecutor, who complained of having been robbed, and to his having taken him to the European constable.
John Moffat, a European constable, went with the prosecutor to some houses in the Duncan Road, and in consequence of what he heard he went in search of prisoners Nos. 2 and 3. As he was going on the road he met No. 1, whom he arrested. Nos. 2 and 3 were taken into custody afterwards and were recognized by the prosecutor. No. 3 admitted the robbery; No. 2 denied having been with the prosecutor. On searching his box a parcel was found containing Rs. 19. Before opening it, he was asked how much was in it, he said Rs. 17. When No. 1 was arrested, prosecutor pointed him out as the man who had seized him by the throat. They were taken to the Mazagon Police Office, when No. 1 produced Rs. 7-12 from his pocket. That same day, at Burjorjee's Tavern, witness found Rs. 15 in a wardrobe, wrapped in a newspaper.
Thomas Mills, European constable, recollected the prosecutor coming with Constable Moffat and complaining of being robbed. Witness in consequence went to the house of the woman Goolab, and from what she said he then went in search of Nos. 2 and 3. No. 3 was first found; prosecutor recognized him, but he denied having been with him: but in consequence of what Goolab said he admitted it. The second prisoner was afterwards found and told of the charge made against him; he denied it, but afterwards admitted having been to the house of Luilum, and in consequence of what she said witness took him into custody. He had nothing about him. On taking him to his lodgings and searching his box, a packet of rupees was found by Mr. Moffatt containing Rs. 19, which he said he had received on board ship. Whilst at the tavern the first prisoner was seen passing and was arrested. He denied any knowledge of the prosecutor: upon his being searched, Rs. 7-12 were found upon him. Whilst his room was being searched he shut the witness in, and ran away. Witness forced the door open and pursued him. On coming up to him he threw a large stone which witness avoided and succeeded in capturing him. No. 3 was taken to his lodging on the following morning: nothing was found in his box, but in a wardrobe Rs. 16 were found, which he said he had taken from a Guard on the Railway named Denham whilst he was drunk.
Thomas Harris, bar-keeper at Burjorjee's Tavern, said No. 3 lived there. Had last seen him at 10 o'clock at night: he had then just come in. He immediately went out again. There is a wardrobe in the place; witness kept the key, but gave it to the fiddler when he left. When it was locked on that night there was no money in it: next day a parcel containing money was taken out of it by the constable. Witness did not know to whom it belonged. Had not given any money to No. 2.
Cowasjee Hormusjee, a Parsee, said he kept a tavern in the Duncan Road. Prisoner No. 2 lived there. Knows No. 3 by sight. No. 2 belonged to the steamer Victoria. Witness went on board and saw him receive his pay. He paid witness Rs. 30, and told him he had only four or five left. This was on the 3rd of last month. On the 6th he left the tavern about half-past nine P. M. That same night witness went with Constable Mills in search of him and found him in the house of a courtezan. The constable asked him if he had been in the company of a soldier. He said "No." He also said he had no money. Witness was present when prisoner's chest was [illegible] Rs. 19 was in it, and he said some [illegible] to him [illegible] paid him.
Thomas King said he was employed in the P. and O. Co.'s Dockyard at Magagon. No. [illegible] employed with him. On the 5th of last month he came to witness's house and brought two pay tickets for 8 annas each, and asked 12 annas for them as he wanted some money and he was not going to work next day.
This was the case against the prisoners. When called upon for their defence, prisoner No. 1 said nothing; Nos. 2 and 3 admitted having been in the company of the prosecutor, but denied knowledge of the robbery.
His Lordship summed up the evidence, and the jury returned a verdict of Guilty of the robbery against Daniel Thompson and Charles Rax, and acquitted Henry George Simpson. Thompson and Rax were sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment, and Simpson was discharged.

THEFT.—Bappoo Gunnoo pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with theft.
Mahadoo Suddoba said:—I am an owner of bullock carts. On the 6th of July the prisoner came to ask for employment. I declined. The next day I missed a cart and two bullocks from my stables. I gave information to the police. The driver's badge and license which were hanging up in the stable were also taken away. I gave the prisoner no permission to take the cart, or use the badge.
Manoel D'Souza, a Mahim agriculturalist, deposed to having purchased the bullocks from the prisoner. They were stopped by the police at Mahim, and enquiries being made, they were brought back to Bombay and the owner found.
Visram Gunnoo, a police sepoy, doing duty at Mahim, took the prisoner into custody at Mahim, not being satisfied from his appearance that he could be the owner of the bullocks he had just sold. They and the cart were brought to Bombay, and the owner was found.
The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and as the prisoner has been seven times in jail since 1861 for various criminal offences, he was sentenced to three years' rigorous imprisonment.

AFTERNOON JURY.
MR. C. FARR.—Foreman.

Messrs. R. Winders; S. L Steadman; A. W. Campbell; G. Sutherland; J. Pass; J. Thomas; J. B. Lafrenais; M. A. C. DeGa; Cursetjee Dhunjeebhoy: Aunundrow Hurrishunker; and Shaboodeen Wagmaray.

THEFT IN A DWELLING.—Rama Nagoo and Yenkoo Lingoo pleaded Not Guilty to the indictment, and Sewoo Sewa, included in the same indictment, pleaded Guilty.
Cheetoo Yenkuttee said:—I know the prisoners. On the 21st of September I went to my work about 9 o'clock in the morning; my wife had already gone. I left two little girls in the house, one nine and the other five years of age. I returned at 6 o'clock and noticed a large box open, and a small box which was inside broken up. They were safe when I left in the morning. From the small box I missed all its contents, which were Rs. 850 in silver, one gold neck-ring, and one silver neck-ring. I gave information to the police, and went with them that evening to the Byculla Station, and saw there the prisoner Yenkoo and another man named Nursoo, who was taken into custody. Yenkoo ran away. In consequence of what I heard, I went to the house of Yenkoo, who is a goldsmith. He was taken into custody; the next day I saw him and Sewoo Sewa at the Chowkey. I went to the house of Sewoo's father and there received the silver neck-ring. The next day I went to the house of Yenkoo and in his presence it was searched and these two bundles, now in Court, were found buried at the back. I afterwards went to the house of a woman he keeps, and there found a bag in which a portion of the money stolen had been kept. Rs. 594 have been recovered.
Lingee, woman, said:—I am in the keeping of the prisoner Yenkoo. On the 21st of September I was at his shop; Sewoo came there with some bags of money. He gave a bag to me. There was another man there at the time. Yenkoo was not there; when he came he took up the bag. He asked me who had brought it. I replied Sewoo. He then took the money out of the bag and made two bundles of it. The money was not counted. He buried the bundles in the compound. The man sitting in the shop tore the bag, and took it to my house, where it was found by the jemadar.
Narrayen Salloo a police sepoy, took the first prisoner into custody and found upon him Rs. 213.
Balloo Wittoba said:—I am a bricklayer. I heard of the robbery and went in search of Rama Nagoo and found him at Mazagon. I said "you are accused of robbery." He admitted it. I asked him if he had any of the money with him; he said yes, he had a bundle with him. I took him to Rowjee, naique, who took him to the constable's quarters at Nagpara; there the bundle was opened and found to contain a cap and Rs. 121 in a handkerchief. There were also two dhoturs.
Rowjee Narrayen, police naique, said:—On the 22nd of September the last witness gave Rama Nagoo into my custody. I took him to the constable and made over the bundle to the jemadar.
Rama Balloo, police jemadar, said.—I received information of this robbery from the prosecutor, and thereupon examined his house, and from thence went to the Byculla Railway Station, and there saw a man named Nursoo. In consequence of what he said I went to the shop of Yenkoo. I asked him where Sewoo and Rama were. He said they had been there at 3 o'clock, but he did not know where they were then. They paid him Rs. 8 I told him of the theft. He said they left nothing with him; he knew nothing about it. I took the 8 rupees and searched him and his house, but found nothing. Next day Rama was brought to the constable with a bundle containing Rs. 121. Yenkoo was there. I asked Rama where the other portion of the money was. He said he had given a bag to Yenkoo; it was he (Rama) and Sewoo who stole it. We then went to Yenkoo's shop, and he produced the two bundles from the back part of his compound, where it was buried. They contained Rs. 195. He said Sewoo and Rama had given them to him. I asked why they gave him the money; he said as a share; there were two shares, one belonging to him and one to Nursoo, a countryman of his. Nursoo was discharged because his statements were so incoherent. I then went to the house of Lingee and found this bag and Rs. 7 which Yenkoo said was part of the money stolen. Sewoo when taken said he went in the prosecutor's house and broke open the small box. After having unlocked the padlock of the large one, at Sewoo's father's house I found this silver ornament, also Rs. 7-13-6. On the 22nd of September a sepoy gave me a bundle containing Rs. 213, some silk handkerchiefs, a cap, a sash, a pair of shoes, and a blanket, all of which, except the blanket, were new.
After the Judge had summed up the evidence, the jury returned a verdict of Guilty against the prisoners Nagoo and Yenkoo of receiving the money knowing the same to have been stolen.
Sewoo Sewa (who pleaded guilty) had been once before convicted. He was sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment, and Rama Nagoo and Yenkoo Lingoo each to twelve months.

HOUSE-BREAKING.—Atma Baudjee pleaded not guilty to this charge.
Bhewkee said:—I am a widow living at Parell. I know the prisoner, who lived in the next house to me. On the 6th of September, at 7 o'clock I locked up my house with a padlock on the front door. I went to my brother's house to hear the sacred book read. I returned at 10 o'clock and found the door open and the padlock on the ground; the back door was open also. I went to look at my box, and found a small box containing jewels had been taken out, two gold head ornaments, a gold neck ring, a gold neck ornament, gold earrings, silver bangles, a silver neck chain, a purse, and Rs. 45. I gave information of the theft. About 15 days after a policeman brought the prisoner to me in custody with the silver bangles and neck chain. The prisoner was then taken away, and was brought back again with the rest of the ornaments and Rs. 41.
Wittoba Bappoojee, a goldsmith, said:—On a Wednesday the prisoner brought some silver ornaments for him to convert into others. He said he had bought them. Witness's partner took the prisoner to Constable Wakefield.
Henry Wakefield, European constable, said, the prisoner was brought to me by a goldsmith with these silver ornaments in Court. He said he had received them from the prosecutrix. I sent him with a duffadar to the woman.
Shaik Hossen Shaik Ahmed took the prisoner to prosecutrix, who recognized the ornaments. She said she had lost others, together with some rupees. Prisoner upon being questioned said they were in his house; and upon going there they were found and also Rs. 41 in a purse.
The jury found the prisoner Guilty on the third count of the indictment, of receiving stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen. He was sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment.

UNNATURAL OFFENCE.—A man named Purshotum Bhowanee, a horsekeeper in the employ of Mr. Charles Stephens, Veterinary Practitioner, residing at Mazagon, was charged with this offence, and pleaded not guilty. The evidence is unfit for publication.
The prisoner was defended by Mr. Barton, and the jury, after retiring, found him guilty on the second count of the indictment, in which he was charged with an attempt to commit an unnatural offence.
Sentence was deferred.

THE Court rose at 6-15 P. M.

SMALL CAUSE COURT.—4th October.
(BEFORE THE FULL COURT.)

Fulcher, Cooper & Co. vs. Mithaun [illegible] Rawjee.

A SET OFF.—This was an action for Rs. 1,147-11, being the amount of a bill drawn against the defendant by Messrs. Woodhouse, Kerrick & Co. of London, in favour of the plaintiffs, and accepted by defendant to cover the balance to his debit on account of wool per Mornington, and being the amount of noting charges. The plaintiffs abandoned the excess of Rs. 147-11 with a view to bringing the action within the jurisdiction of the Court.
Mr Cooper, instructed by Messrs. Kelly and Hore appeared for the plaintiffs.
Mr. Carter for the defendant.
This case was tried before His Honor the First Judge on Wednesday, the 31st day of August last, when a verdict was entered for the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed, with costs. On an affidavit being made on behalf of the defendant by Mr Carter, a new trial was granted, which came on before the Full Court on the 2[illegible]th and 27th of the last month, when the parties were represented by Mr. Cooper, Barrister-at-law, and Mr. Carter, Solicitor, both of whom ably represented their clients. This day Dr Reid delivered the unanimous opinion of the Court as follows:—
We are of opinion that the defendant has failed to establish each of the defences set up by him to this action, namely, first, that the Court has no jurisdiction on the ground that the amount sued is part of an item of account between the parties, and forms an [illegible] cannot be sued for separately; and secondly, consequently, [illegible] the Court to have jurisdiction, that, assuming a valid set-off, which exceeds in amount the plaintiffs' claim. With regard to the first defence, the plaintiffs' right of action on the accepted bill, we find that never extinguished either by payment, nor in suit was satisfaction; and that the plaintiffs never by accord and waived their right to sue upon the bill, or consented to account due thereon as a mere item in a [illegible] the 20th February 1864 [illegible] and did not demand payment, because they were expecting a bill for a much larger amount in defendant's favour; and then, moreover, advanced a further sum of Rs. 5,000 to the defendant on the 8th February 1864, which, with a former balance against the defendant of Rs. 6,296, was then allowed to stand to his debit, in anticipation of the expected bill in his favour. That bill reached the plaintiffs about the middle of March, and was drawn upon them by Woodhouse, Kerrick & Co. of London, and payable to plaintiffs themselves or order. We do not consider it necessary for the decision of the present case to say whether that bill was in point of fact accepted by the plaintiffs or not; but we consider it sufficient to say that the plaintiffs, with the consent of the defendant, carried the amount of that bill, namely Rs. 13,598-6 to the credit of the defendant on the 19th May. That being so, the defendant cannot now treat the full amount of that bill as a set-off, either under the denomination of all "accepted bills due on the 20th May 1864," or as the "amount due to defendant's or by plaintiffs' consignment Ledger Book, p. 57." where the amount of that bill is entered to the credit of the defendant against other items to his debit. A bill for Rs. 1,797 was subsequently drawn by the defendant in favour of the plaintiffs, which the defendant declined to accept; and it was in consequence of the defendant not having accepted it, which would have left a balance upon the whole in favour of the plaintiffs, that the plaintiffs demanded payment of and subsequently [illegible] the former bill for Rs. 1,139; but we find that the plaintiffs never, in any way, abandoned their right to sue upon that bill. We are, therefore, of opinion that the defendant has failed to establish both the defences set up by him, and we enter a verdict for the plaintiffs for Rs. 1,000, and certify for Advocate's costs Rs. 85.

Wednesday, 5th October.
(BEFORE F. D. FAITHFUL, ESQ.)

Moujee Dewsey vs. J. Bowden, widow and legal representative of R. G. Bowden, deceased.

This was an action to recover the sum of Rs. 147-1-6, being the amount of goods sold and delivered to defendant by plaintiff during her husband's life-time on 28th November 1863, as per defendant's acknowledgment.
The plaintiff appeared in person.
Mr. Cleveland for the defendant.
Mr. Cleveland said that the defendant's husband died a few months ago, and that he had left a paper which might or might not be found to be a will; that letters of administration had not yet been taken out, and the case against the defendant had, therefore, been prematurely brought, she not being the administratrix of the deceased's estate.
The plaintiff not being prepared to prove that defendant had administered to her husband's estate, His Honor non-suited the plaintiff, with costs.

Byramjee Dadabhoy vs. James Sharpe Appleton.

This was an action to recover Rs. 240-2-7, being the amount of loss sustained by plaintiff, by reason of defendant's neglect and refusal to hand over and give delivery of 224 large loose weights, as per indent, dated 20th June 1863, signed by defendant, being the articles of a certain consignment received by defendant for plaintiff per the ship Confidence: the loss being difference between the price at which plaintiff had previously, on the 14th February 1864, bargained and sold the said goods to a Parsee merchant by name Ruttonjee Dadabhoy, and the price that was current in the market on the 2nd of March 1864.
Mr. Jehangier appeared on behalf of the plaintiff.
Mr. Cooper for the defendant.
Mr. Cooper.—I wish to see the indent.
Mr. Jehangier produced the same before the Court.
[A correspondence between the parties was then read by Mr. Jehangier before the Court.]
Mr. Jehangier said that the full sum was tendered to the defendant, but the weights were not delivered.
Byramjee Dadabhoy sworn.—He saw in the papers an advertisement of the arrival of the ship. On or about the 8th of February last he went to Mr. Appleton's office and asked him when he would deliver the goods: he replied, "as soon as they are landed." On another occasion when witness went to defendant's office he was told to come on Monday. Witness went on that day, when the manager Govindjee informed him that Mr. Appleton had proceeded to England. He then upon asked Govindjee to deliver him the goods; Govindjee said that they were lying at Colaba. After a few days, witness took Ruttonjee Dadabhoy to the manager of Mr. Appleton, and asked him for delivery saying, "he is a merchant to pay the money," and the same [illegible] showing him Rs. 600. [illegible] that there was a little account of the landing [illegible] yet to be made out. Witness went several times to Govindjee but did not get delivery of the goods.
Ruttonjee Dadabhoy, the godown keeper of Messrs. Campbell & Co., materially corroborated the plaintiff's story.
Manockjee Ruttonjee, another witness, on being examined, stated that he accompanied plaintiff on one occasion to defendant's office, heard him ask for delivery of the goods, and remembered defendant saying that they had not been landed.
One or two other witnesses were next examined on behalf of the plaintiff whose evidence was very [illegible] all to support the plaintiff's case.
Mr. Appleton, on being sworn stated that he is the only member of the firm of Appleton and Co. He agreed with the plaintiff to deliver the goods [illegible] in the indent according to the terms. They were ready for delivery when he left for England. He had left instructions to his manager, Govindjee, to hand over the weights to the plaintiff on receiving money. On his return from England in July last, Mr. Appleton found that a suit had been instituted against him. He asked plaintiff to come to his office. Plaintiff had failed to pay landing ch[illegible]

Digitized with financial assistance from the Government of Maharashtra on 27 June, 2017

The evidence of Govindjee and other witnesses for the defendant was of a conflicting nature.

This case came on for hearing on Saturday last before His Honor, when after hearing the arguments of the advocates of the parties and their witnesses, it was adjourned until this day for Judgment.

The Judgment was accordingly delivered by His Honor, who gave a verdict in favour of the plaintiff. After recapitulating the evidence His Honor was of opinion that the plaintiff had made out a consistent case, while the evidence of the defendant and his witnesses appeared to be of a questionable character. His Honor however doubted whether the plaintiff was entitled to the full amount of damages claimed by him, namely, Rs. 240-2-7, although it was clear to him that the plaintiff had a just claim to some portion of damages. He would, therefore, give a verdict for plaintiff for Rs. 150, with costs.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS.

To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.

Sir,—I wonder how long the nuisances of domestic servants are to continue in Bombay. Everywhere and in every point they annoy and pester, rob and cheat you, and all you can do in return is to eat humble pie and put up patiently with their rascalities. But the thing does not rest even here. The barbers and dhobies formed a combination each of their own brethren in trade and raised their rates sometime ago; and now the gorawallahs are trying to play in the same direction it appears. My gorawallah came to me this morning, Sir, bowing and salaaming cringingly, and informed me, with the utmost gravity his impudence could enable him to assume, that if I did not give him Rs. 20 per month I had better look out for somebody else, as he could not continue in my service, it being arranged at a congregation held yesterday of his fraternity that any gorawallah who would take service under any master under Rs. 20 per mensem will be put out of his caste. Now, if things are allowed to continue thus, why, the day is not distant when our cooks will want from us no less than 100 per mensem! Can nothing be done to remedy this growing evil? Free-trade is a very good thing indeed in its way, but there are limits to everything however good. Cannot the police interfere? What is Captain Souter doing? The ringleaders amongst gorawallahs can be justly charged with conspiracy, and dealt with according to law. Why not do so then at once and nip the infection in the bud?

ECONOMY.

To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.

Sir,—Economy is the cry under which all shortcomings of Government are excused; if we take up an official paper we find that every step taken by Government is dictated by a regard for economy.

Our Post Office, our Telegraph Department, our Railways, our Law Courts, our Police and Police Courts, and our Small Cause Courts are either overworked or inefficient owing to the prevalent notions of economy.

Our Army is going to rack on the same principle.

Economy! Sham, bosh, all moonshine. It is the "penny wise and pound foolish" policy that our administrators are perpetrating, and the antiquated systems that they refuse to throw off which are draining the public purse continually whilst they prevent the State wheel rotating majestically.

Let me enquire to what hobbies, then, are we to attribute the constant drain on our finances, to which the more important improvements must give way.

Does the army run away with money that might be more profitably laid out in the development of the resources of this country? I think it does. Is it the Department of the Cavalry, the Artillery or the Infantry on whom favours are lavished at the expense of the country? I think all four get a fair share of the good things of this land; and I will proceed to explain why I think so, commencing with the last—the Infantry.

For whilst the sepoys have barely enough to subsist on and the officers' pittance is a source of ridicule to those unconnected with the service of Government, we find Government arming the sepoys with costly weapons such as only gentlemen of property would indulge in. In Bombay under our very eyes we have a native regiment armed with the Lancaster rifle, one of the most expensive weapons undergoing trial. The cost of equipping a regiment with this rifle may be estimated at half a lac of rupees, exclusive of the value of other necessary accompaniments. Now, Sir, when we know that the cost of Enfield rifles, condemned, according to Sir Charles Wood, owing to the fastidiousness of regimental committees, amounted to between three and four lacs of rupees in one year, it is difficult to understand why the boring up of condemned Enfields into smooth-bore-muskets for native troops is not resorted to. It is all moonshine to say that this process will render the barrel too thin to be fired with safety. That barrels so converted will not last so long as others turned out originally as smooth-bores may be admitted; but it is premature to assert that the removal of the interior projections of rifles will render the barrel unfit or unsafe for use; let it only be tried on a limited scale. Many a fowling piece worn as thin as paper carries the bullet from the owner's hand into the deer's heart; surely this is not impossible from the hands of a soldier, simply because he does not pay for his weapon.

The number of Enfield rifles condemned in a single year has been nearly equal to an eighth of the entire British force in India, and would have equipped, if altered into smooth-bores, at least ten native regiments. The expense of converting rifles into smooth-bores would be very inconsiderable. The change if willingly and successfully carried out will prove a step towards

To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.

Sir,—It may perhaps be interesting to your readers and correspondents, like "Mr. Cromwell," to know, that although the Judgment of Mr. Warden has been reversed by the High Court in the case of Cama vs. Morgan, and a decree given in favour of Mr. Cama, yet the order as to costs only gives Mr. Cama costs of one rupee, while Captain Morgan gets those for fourteen thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine, or, in other words, the assaulted is mulcted in favour of the assaulter. As to the propriety of mixing all sorts of irrelevant questions into this matter, the less said the better. The High Court have pronounced a certain judgment, determining the merits of the legal question, and those who attribute to Mr. Cama any vindictive feelings in the matter appear to beg the whole question. Because the European forces form a part of those employed for preserving the peace of the Indian Empire, does it follow that every component of it has a right to disturb it? The logic of this I leave to your exasperated correspondents, whose cooler reason will perhaps induce them to let well alone. Whatever may be the value of the British sword, it is quite clear that British law is and must be supreme.

LEX.

5th October.

II.

To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.

Sir,—Your correspondent "Fair Play" comes forward in this case with an apology for the rider Hormusjee Wadia, and really makes a bad business worse by denying the insult offered to Captain Morgan's lady, for he says "Hormusjee Wadia denies in toto having insulted Mrs. Morgan by allowing his pony to tread on the skirts of her garments"; and we are referred to the proceedings in the case to bear out this statement. Well, to take Mr. "Fair Play" at his challenge, what has he to say to that part of the Judgment where the Judges remark:—"As to the unmannerly proceeding of young Mr. Hormusjee Wadia (whose quarrel the plaintiff had espoused) few things would be more irritating. An awkward rider, coming close up behind your wife without a word of warning, allows his pony to put his foot on her dress and his head on her shoulder, and on being told of what he had done, passes on without a word of apology." The Judges make this statement with all the evidence before them, and in the face of this "Fair Play" dares to deny the insult. He goes further, and says "Professor Dadabhoy Nowrojee and Ardaseer Cursetjee Cama bore out Hormusjee Wadia's denial." Did they? What says the Judgment? "Before they had gone many paces up the walk, the plaintiff (Ardaseer Cursetjee Cama) and his friend Mr. Dadabhoy Nowrojee, who had been walking behind at some little distance and who had not witnessed the assault of Wadia's pony on Mrs. Morgan's dress or shoulder, but who had seen the Captain aim a blow at the pony and heard him speak in a loud angry tone to the rider, came up to the gate of the compound."

The proceedings to which "Fair Play" refers us thus show that Hormusjee Wadia actually committed a dastardly, cowardly, unprovoked assault on an English lady, and that Dadabhoy Nowrojee and Ardaseer Cursetjee Cama were not within view at the time of its commission. Thus this Parsee apologist aggravates the case against Hormusjee Wadia by making wilful false statements in [illegible] to the proceedings and in defiance of truth. Truly, Hormusjee Wadia's first champion may belong to the tribe of long-eared quadrupeds, but his second belongs to that common species of biped familiarly known as the knave.

Having disposed of "Fair Play's" glaring mis-statements, come we next to his assault on "Cromwell" as to his ignorance on "Parsee customs and feelings." Is "Cromwell" so much out in his ideas of the way Parsees treat women as "Fair Play" supposes? Is it not perfectly true that when "Fair Play" was born he entered on life's vista under a ground floor stair-case, in a corner ten feet square, covered in from the light of day and shut out from the air of heaven, where a wretched oil lamp was kept burning to make darkness visible? Was he not kept there forty successive days and nights? Was he not stripped to the buff and rolled on the dirty floor to be taken up by another, and given back again in the same fashion? So much for "Parsee customs." When a woman is compelled by "custom" to quit the ordinary bed room for the black hole beneath the stair case at the time of her existence at which above all others she requires the utmost care, sympathy, and comfort, when she is forced to stay there for forty days and forty nights through weal or through woe, when no appeal to feeling or affection can get her light or air, can we wonder at the "feelings" such treatment must give life to in the Parsee breast? Is "Fair Play" now convinced that "Cromwell" was not so much in error as might be supposed by the ignorant or uninitiated, or is he desirous that the curtain should be lifted still higher on the inner life of the "customs and feelings" of the Parsees? I know there have been a few cases of removal to better apartments in serious illness where the men have been forced to do the correct thing; and I hope in the interests of humanity the day is coming when the most barbarous custom on the face of the earth will have become a thing of the past. Even now I would have gladly waited for the dawning of that day, but Hormusjee Wadia's champion challenges the Briton to the combat. Let the vanquished bow his head and learn wisdom.

The "Parsee knows right well how to apologize when he is placed in the unpleasant position of having unintentionally given offence to any person, more especially to a lady"; so says "Fair Play." We have already shown how he has been taught to regard a lady from his earliest infancy, and we have seen from the statement of the Judges of the High Court how Hormusjee Wadia has acquitted himself in this Poorundhur case. These practical proofs are worth ten thousand asseverations. We may be permitted to ask whether Hormusjee Wadia and Ardaseer Cursetjee Cama would have behaved precisely as they did at Poorundhur if the walking party had consisted of Jemmy O'Brien and his wife, with Paddy O'Flaherty as the escort, all Galway lads to be sure? Musha, no apology would have been wanted at all, at all, and may be the Parsees knew that same.

I hope Hormusjee Wadia has received the full measure of "justice" which his friend "Fair Play" intended by the publication of his valuable epistle, and that the hopeful pedestrian is convinced of the ridiculous figure he has been made to cut before the public? I can fully sympathize with "Fair Play" in his "heartily wishing 'Cromwell's' subscription scheme all success." Let him take comfort in the assurance that an injured, insulted Englishwoman will never want the strong protecting hand of a loyal

RAILWAYS IN NATIVE STATES BILL.

HOME DEPARTMENT.—Legislative.

(From the Gazette of India.)

The following Bill, and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it, are published for general information by order of His Excellency the Governor-General, under the 19th of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations:—

A Bill to make better provision for the administration of Criminal justice in connection with Railways constructed in Native States.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to make better provision for the administration of Criminal justice within the limits of Railways constructed or in course of construction by Companies or persons under the superintendence or control of the Government of India within the Dominions of Native Princes or States in alliance with the Queen, and further to provide for the speedier trial of persons employed on such Railways charged with offences committed beyond their limits: It is enacted as follows:—

Over what persons the powers hereinafter declared shall be exercised.

II. The person so appointed shall further exercise the powers hereinafter declared over all subjects of the Queen, European or Native, employed on or attached to such Railway, part of a Railway, or land set apart as aforesaid, who may be charged with offences committed beyond the limits described in the last preceding Section and in Foreign Territory.

Powers of Judicial Superintendent.

IV. The Judicial Superintendent shall exercise, within the limits described in Section I of this Act and over the persons described in Section II of this Act, the like powers as may be exercised by a person invested with the full powers of a Magistrate and by a Justice of the Peace under the Code of Criminal Procedure. Provided that in cases falling under Section II of this Act, it shall not be necessary for the Judicial Superintendent to report such cases in the manner required by Act I of 1849 (to provide more effectually for the punishment of offences committed in Foreign States), or to await the orders of Government thereon, but it shall be lawful for the Judicial Superintendent to proceed, save as is otherwise provided in this Act, exactly as if the alleged offence had been committed on British Territory.

Jurisdiction over British-born subjects.

V. The Judicial Superintendent shall exercise over British-born subjects travelling or proceeding upon the line of Railway under his charge, or the Railway whereof such line may be part, and over British-born subjects employed on or attached to any Railway, part of a Railway, or land set apart for the construction or working of a Railway, which may be under his charge, the like jurisdiction as is vested by the Statute 53 Geo. III., cap. 155, Section CV., in the Magistrate of a Zillah or District over any British subject resident in such Zillah or District, and shall exercise such jurisdiction both in respect of offences alleged to have been committed on the Railway or land under his charge, and also in [illegible] in Foreign Territory.

Who may [illegible] to hear appeals from decisions of [illegible] Judicial Superintendent.

VI. The Governor General in Council may appoint the Sessions Judge of any District adjacent to the Railway or part of a Railway assigned to the charge of a Judicial Superintendent to hear appeals from such Superintendent.

Trial of offences committed on boundary of jurisdiction, or begun without, and completed within, the jurisdiction.

IX. When any offence shall be committed beyond the limits, or on the boundary of the limits, described in Section I. of this Act, or shall be begun in any District subject to the General Regulations and be completed within such limits, every such offence may be enquired into and determined within such limits in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed therein.

Where persons sentenced by Judicial Superintendent may be imprisoned.

X. Any person liable to be imprisoned in any Civil or Criminal Jail under any sentence of the Judicial Superintendent may be imprisoned in the Civil or Criminal Jail in any District indicated by the Judicial Superintendent, and it shall be lawful for the Judicial Superintendent to transmit such persons to the Magistrate or other Officer in charge of the Jail so indicated by him, with a copy of the commitment or sentence under his, the Judicial Superintendent's, hand, and the said Magistrate or other Officer in charge of the Jail shall give effect to such commitment or sentence.

Act when to come into operation.

XI. This Act shall be of effect in reference to any line of Railway or land set apart in manner described in Section I. of this Act, and in reference to the persons described in Section II. of this Act, from such date as the Governor General in Council shall fix by notification in the Gazette of India.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The Bill now published with the Governor General's permission provides for Judicial powers to be conferred on an Officer attached to Railways running through the territory of Native Princes. This Officer it is proposed to call the Judicial Superintendent of the Railway.

The Bill does not alter in any respect the principles of the existing Law, but it corrects certain inconveniences, which at present attend their application.

All subjects of the Queen, European and Native, are amenable to the Law for offences of any kind committed in the territory of Native Princes in alliance with Her Majesty, in precisely the same manner as if those offences had been committed within the British Dominions. The general principle is declared in Section LXVII. of the English Statute 33 Geo. III., cap 52, and the mode of committing and bailing alleged offenders is regulated by Act I. of 1849.

At present, however, a double process has to be resorted to before the conviction of an offender can be secured. Authority has first to be obtained from the Native Prince to deport the accused person beyond the limits of the State in which the offence is said to have been committed, and it is not until he has been brought before some Court in British territory that the powers conferred by the English and Indian Statutes can be exerted. It is true that, as regards British born subjects, a Justice of the Peace holding a commission from the High Court of Madras, may, under Statute 26 Geo. III., cap. 57, Section XXX, commit them for trial by the High Court from certain parts of Native India, and there is eminent authority in favour of the proposition that committals may be made, not only to the High Court which issued the commission, but to any other High Court in India. At the same time, an authority almost equally eminent has ruled that accused persons can under the Statute only be committed to Madras—a course often highly inconvenient and involving considerable oppression—and moreover the powers of Madras Justices do not extend to all Native territory in India in which Railways are being constructed, but are limited in the words of the Act of Parliament to "the dominions or territories of the Soubah of the Dekkan, the Nabob of Arcot, or the Rajah of Tanjore."

The present Bill simplifies, without changing the Law. The Judicial Superintendent will be allowed to deal at once in the usual way with cases falling under his cognizance as a Magistrate with full powers, and, in cases requiring a committal to some other tribunal, he will commit direct to the High Court or Court of Session. But sentences of imprisonment passed by him will of course be carried out on British territory.

The necessity of some such measure as the present has been brought to the notice of the Government of India by some disorders of which servants of a Railway Company appear to have recently been guilty in Native territory. It is only just to say that such cases are exceptional, and that the general good behaviour of Railway officials and Railway servants, when employed beyond the British dominions, is amply attested.

Simla, 31st August 1864. Henry S. Maine.

POONA.

Suicide.—A woman named Radha Combe Hunmunta Dhorkay inhabitant of Palt Gunesh, committed suicide on Sunday by throwing herself in a well. It appears that formerly she was by caste a Hindoo and afterwards converted to Mahomedanism while in the employ of a Mahomedan named Dullabhai, she offered to marry with him but this was refused and consequently there was no other alternative left but to destroy herself has she had given up her own religion for him.—Poona Observer, October 4.

Three prisoners named Mahadew Bappoojee, Rama bin Dewjee, and Balkrishna bin Succaram, were arraigned on Friday last before the Deputy Magistrate for committing robberies in different houses, and were found guilty and sentenced each to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.—Id.

BENGAL.

Our latest dates from the Straits are to the 5th instant. No further intelligence has been received respecting the proposed transfer of these settlements to the Crown, and the people seem content to wait till the re-opening of the Home Parliament. The Java Times states, that the Portuguese garrison at a place called "Timor Delhi" revolted on the night of the 30th May, having had no pay for three months, and being badly fed and clad. The majority of the Council fled on foot to the interior leaving everything to its fate. A new Government was elected the next afternoon, and order is again restored. There is no other news of the slightest interest.—Englishman, Sept. 28.

MADRAS.

The Pier.—In a despatch dated 8th August, the Secretary of State informed the Madras Government that the new Cranes for the Pier had been shipped on board the Tyburnia expected to sail from London on the 27th August. He forwarded at the same time copy of a letter from Mr. Gibson, by whom the Cranes were supplied, enclosing tracings of them together with instructions for their erection.—Athenæum and Daily News, Sept. 29.

CHINA.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

(From the Overland China Mail, Sept. 10.)

The London Mail of July 16th arrived here by the Messageries Imperiales line of steamers on Sunday, the 28th ultimo, but too late to reply to advices received. The mail from London of July 26th arrived on the 3rd instant.

In our issue of last fortnight we drew attention to the condition of affairs in Japan, and hinted at the approach of active hostilities between that empire and Western nations. The latest intelligence from Japan is to the 24th ultimo, and matters seem to be rapidly coming to a crisis. As we have already stated, the Inland Sea is the cause of quarrel. The entrance to that convenient tradal passage is strongly guarded by forts under the control of the Prince of Nagato. These forts have, of late, been greatly strengthened, evidently with the deliberate intention of holding the Straits of Shimonosaki against all foreign vessels. It was at these Straits that French, American, and Dutch vessels were fired upon about a year ago; and there is every reason to believe that the Prince of Nagato has abated nothing of the hostility which he then displayed towards foreigners. Indeed, proof of this was given quite recently, for H.M.S. Cormorant, on steaming past the batteries, had a gun fired across her bows. This was, of course, viewed as a sufficient intimation of the Prince's feelings towards foreigners, and the Cormorant, accompanied by the Barossa, made her way back to Yokohama and reported the reception she had met with. We were unable to record this circumstance on proper authority by the last mail, although we stated the fact that the visit of the two ships of war to the Prince of Nagato's territory had not resulted in anything satisfactory. Our intelligence, however, with regard to the impending warlike expedition proves to have been perfectly correct. Sixteen vessels of war (English, French, and Dutch) were, at the date of our last advices, on the eve of setting out for Nagato's dominions. The foreign ministers were all at one on the question of hostilities. The American representative, though unable to send a man-of-war, had gone so far as to charter a sailing vessel in order that the U.S. flag should be duly displayed in the coming fight. The vessels of war reported as composing the expedition are the Conqueror, Euryalus, Barossa, Leopard, Tartar, Coquette, Cormorant, and Bouncer, all under the English flag; the Semiramis, Dupleix, and Tancrede (French); the Medusa, Metalen, Kims, Djamba, and Amsterdam (Dutch); and the Takiang, chartered by the U. S. Minister in order to show the American flag when the forts are engaged. Considerable preparations have been made, we believe, for the further trial of Armstrong guns at shell practice, and the result will most probably determine the efficiency of those weapons.

There can, we think, be little doubt as to the unanimity of the Japanese ruling powers in the present defiance of foreigners, for it appears that the Ambassadors to France, who had returned home just as the expedition was on the point of starting, were informed that their pacific arrangements with France were not to be considered valid on the grounds that they had exceeded their powers. It seems that they had promised to have the Inland Sea opened to French vessels in three months, and the expedition was detained on the strength of this arrangement. But the Tycoon's government declined to admit the authority of the Ambassadors to make any such contract; so the fleet was ordered to move on the 26th or 27th ultimo. This is the stage at which our last advices from Japan leave us: but it is likely that in the course of a fortnight we shall be able to report the result of the combined undertaking. It is evident that the Daimios and the Tycoon understand each other pretty well, and that the Prince of Nagato has been allowed to enter the lists as a trial measure. It certainly says a great deal for the Prince's pluck: and, whatever may be the result, Nagato will at least rank with Satsuma as a defender of Japan from foreign approach. How many Japanese nobles may successively throw down the gauntlet to us it is impossible to say; and it is equally difficult to predict any distinct advantages likely to arise from a repetition of Kagosima combats.

This Inland Sea affair, it is almost needless to say, has been adopted as a handle for hostilities highly agreeable to English traditions. We are supposed to be peculiarly jealous of maritime rights and privileges all over the world, and it can be easily shown that the passage through the Straits of Shimonosaki belongs to every vessel that floats. The British Cabinet will, therefore, have a comparatively easy task before them should they ever be called upon to justify the course now being pursued. On political grounds we believe the expedition to be justifiable; but whether it is advisable by the principles which ought to govern warlike preparations is another matter. We must presume that Admiral Kuper is the best judge of this, and leave matters to the solution of time.

With regard to China we have to report the fall of the city of Hoochow which took place on the 28th ultimo. This may be said to finish the Taeping insurrection; and, as such an event is worth noting, we quote a report of the affair from the North-China Market Report:—

Hoochow.—This city fell into the hands of the Imperialists on the 28th ultimo. We had previously learned from native reports that the Rebels were rapidly sinking into the state of misery which heralded the approach of the fall of Nanking. Rice was scarce, but actual starvation had not as yet set in. The most serious want was that of firewood, of which there was not a particle to be found. Deserted houses had been pulled down and coffins burned, and a general impression prevailed that the city could not hold out much longer, as supplies of every kind were cut off. At length on the day mentioned, the garrison retired without a shot, [illegible] through a pass in the The Dien hills into the province of Kiang-si. The disposition of the Imperial forces ordered in the Peking Gazette of August 1st, a translation of which we published in the last North China Herald, would seem to have proved of no avail in stopping the retreat of the Hoochow garrison. What [illegible] may be which they will now adopt—whether they will subside quietly into the ranks of the peaceful inhabitants, or whether they retain sufficient organisation to attempt fresh conquests, may well become matter for speculation.

From the same Journal we take the following items of news from Peking:—

Peking.—A correspondent informs us that Sang-ko-lin sin has been elevated to hereditary rank in consequence of the successes which have lately attended the Imperial arms. He has also received a despatch from the Emperor extolling his devotion, and commiserating the discomforts to which he subjected himself by prolonging a campaign into the middle of summer. His Imperial Majesty accordingly sends the Prince several packages of tea, and some cooling medicine. E-Ching Wang (the prince of Kung) has also been raised to hereditary rank, while his pay and allowances as a prince have been doubled. This latter mark of the Imperial favour he has, however, declined.

From the different ports on the Yangtsze and the Coast there are no news of importance. For trade returns we refer our readers to the Commercial Summary subjoined.

In Hongkong much dissatisfaction has been displayed at the conduct of the local Government in passing an ordance by which the Colony has to pay £100,000 in five years, to the Imperial Government. Other local items we thus note from our Daily files:—

An article congratulated Colonel Sykes and his followers on the great waste of life at the capture of Nanking. This gratulation was, however, considerably modified by the fact that the 100,000 Rebels who fell in and about the city met their death only by very prolonged and desperate fighting.—A letter appeared from the Hon. C. W. Murray, correcting an alleged omission in our report of his speech at the public meeting on the Military Contribution. Some remarks were made in a leader on the subject, tending to show that the speech of the honourable gentleman was unjust, and based on a misapprehension of the spirit of our article objected to.—An article also appeared drawing attention to the remark in Mr. Murray's speech touching the want of expression under which public opinion labours in this Colony. The charge, if aimed at the local press, was answered; and returned with greater reasonableness to official and non-official members of the Legislative Council, part of the responsibility of which body rests upon the hon. gentleman in his capacity of a non-official member.—Monday was a gala day with the Volunteers, on the occasion of the competition for a Challenge Cup presented to the Corps by H. E. the Governor. The shooting of the thirty-one members who entered as competitors was excellent, and said to have been equal to that of the Royal Artillery. Gunner H. J. H. Tripp was the fortunate winner of the Cup for the year.—The Christy's Minstrels gave their farewell performance this week. They go to Macao for a week, previous to their visit to Shanghae and the Northern Ports.—Our Canton correspondent mentions that the city was again flooded, but this time with some 30,000 human beings, attracted to the place by the examinations. Considerable damage was feared from the recent inundation to the paddy-fields.—The French Mail arrived on Sunday morning, but nothing of importance was received of home news.

The recent publication of two or three works on Chinese—a Grammar of the Chinese Language, and a small English-Chinese Grammar—suggested a few remarks on the system advocated by the author of Romanizing the language in order to facilitate the spread of education amongst the ignorant masses of the Empire. We noticed just lately a similar proposal by an eminent scholar in British India for the introduction of a uniform alphabet amongst the tribes of Hindustan, which received the favourable consideration of several influential officials; and, were it practicable, it would doubtless lead to the advancement of enlightened ideas and the furtherance of better understandings between nations and peoples.—A report of the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Morrison Education Society was reproduced from the printed report of that useful institution.—Extracts from Shanghae journals were published. Concerning Japan there is nothing more satisfactory as yet to record, the wavering only seeming to be more marked. Rumours were contradictory as to the state of Hoochow, the "last nest of the rebels," and a day or two will most likely inform us of its capture, together with, it is also hoped, its garrison.—The decision has been given in the case of the master and crew of the ship Euphrates, the Chinese passengers of which vessel were confined below, on the passage, for alleged mutiny. The Master's certificate has been suspended for six months, and the mates return to their duties of able seamen. Costs were ordered against the applicants for the investigation, but over ruled by the Governor, who confirmed the sentence of the Court in every other respect.—The Legislative Council met on Monday to consider the military contribution estimate, when, although it was warmly opposed by several of the members both official and non-official, the item was ordered to remain in the estimates by the casting-vote of H. E. the Governor. A resolution was, however, carried by a majority of eight to one condemnatory of the impost.—Our L. L. contributed an article on the occasion of a pleasant visit to Macao.

COMMERCIAL SUMMARY.

Shanghai, 3rd September.

Opium.—Malwa.—The market is in rather a depressed state, prices having again receded Tls. 5 to 10 per picul, caused both by the arrival of supplies from the South, and a weak local demand. Reshipments continue to be made by holders. Patna has declined fully Tls. 10 on our last quotations, but even at the present reduced figures Chinese dealers buy but sparingly, there is no speculative demand for this drug at present. The deliveries have been, Malwa 882 chests, highest Tls. 525, closing at Tls. 515, Patna 325 chests, highest Tls. 384, closing at Tls. 377 per chest. Stock, Malwa 1220 and Patna 950 chests.

Raw Cotton has advanced, but owing to small supplies the settlements have been only 2000 bales. The new crop is expected in about three weeks, the quality is said to be very fine, and the increase promises to exceed last season's crop by about 20 per cent. For new Cotton contracts cannot be made under Tls. 20, but the Chinese do not seem inclined to enter into engagements in the meantime. Old Shanghae No. 1. is quoted at Tls. 19-5 to 20, and No. 2, at Tls. 19 per picul.

Vessels Loading.—For London.—Queen of Nations, Claremont, Napoleon III., John Banks, Yaratilda, Sarah Newman, Waverley, Tofiecomb, and Southern Cross. For Liverpool.—Fizzel, David McIver, Patna, and Southern Empire. For New York.—Prince of Wales.

HONGKONG OPIUM MARKET.

Charles Jamieson's Opium Circular, dated Hongkong, 9th September, 1864, says:

In my last Opium report of the 26th ultimo, I mentioned that large sales of Opium had been made to foreigners, the Chinese engaging but moderately in any kind.

I have now to acquaint you that since that date the Chinese have still remained very quiet in the market, and purchasers have been principally foreigners for the Northern ports, clearances being confined nearly altogether to exports.

Patna.—The price last quoted was dolrs. 512-50 a 515 per chest, but declined immediately on the arrival of the 8th Sale Opium, on the 4th, to dolrs. 500 per chest, and has remained near that figure since, the closing rates being dolrs. 502-50.

Benares.—Has been very languid and difficult of sale at dolrs. 470 a 475, the former being the quotation of this day.

Malwa.—A fair demand for first sort by foreigners has continued at dolrs. 675 a 630 per chest, very little local Chinese demand occurring.

Turkey.—The imports have been 111 cases, and sales to same extent have been made at dolrs. 500 per picul, the Chinese are now quoting dolrs. 490.

Persian.—No change for the better has been evinced for this description of Opium.

| | Patna. | Benares. | Malwa. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Estimated Stock 26th Ultimo | 680 | 500 | 740 |
| Imports per Aden, A.Apcar & Tai-ping-nyo, abt | 1,300 | 800 | 1,391 |
| | 1,980 | 1,300 | 2,131 |
| Exports, &c., &c. | 800 | 550 | 1,300 |
| Estimated Stock, 9th September 1864 | 1,180 | 750 | 831 |

The following is from Messrs. Sharp & Co.'s Circular:—

Gold.—The arrivals of Gold during the fortnight amount to one hundred and ninety thousand dollars' worth; the shipments outwards, including those by the Emeu on the 28th ultimo, and excluding those to leave by the Orissa to-morrow, have amounted to the large total of four hundred and seventy thousand dollars' value. Owing to the enquiry both for India and for Manila, the market has been pretty well clean swept.

Silver.—About two lakhs and a quarter dollars' worth have been received; and the same amount exported. The only considerable transaction has been the government sale of Sycee last week by Tender.

Dollar Currency.—The large exports, principally to Shanghae, still appears the leading feature. One million and ninety thousand have come in, and one million and seventy thousand have gone out. Clean dollars stand very much as by last account.

Discounts and Mortgages.—Some heavy sums have been done at eight per cent. for a month, and at six per cent. for shorter time. For Mortgages of house property, and Chinese securities, higher rates are demanded.

Exchange.—Bills have not been plentiful, owing to the very small amount of business doing: but at the close of the Mail, sellers have had to submit to worse rates than those previously obtainable. Rupees have fallen below the last quotations upon advices of the tightness of the India money market.

THE CAPTURE OF NANKING.

(From the North-China Herald.)

The following Imperial Edict has been issued with reference to the successful issue of the campaign in the province of Keang-su.

(Peking Gazette, August 1st, 1864.)

Prince Seng-ko-li-sin, Kwan, Tseng-kuo-fan and others have received: despatch by War Office express from Prince King, communicating the following Imperial Edict:—

We to-day have received the report of Kwan and Tseng-kuo-fan, despatched at the rate of 600 li a day, containing the account of the recovery of Nanking and the complete destruction of the whole tribe of rebels there—and have bestowed Our Imperial glance thereon. We are beyond measure deeply gratified, and have issued an Edict for general information that Tseng, &c. have been advanced in rank as an acknowledgment of their services, and Seng, &c., have had further marks of Our Imperial approbation.

The Canton rebels have long held a corner of Our Empire at Nanking, opposing Our troops, and fiercer rebels have never been. But now Our forces by land and sea have, in the broiling heat of summer, by their courage and unanimity, quickly recovered a strong city, completely extinguished a fierce horde, and taken captive their chief men. Had it not been that Tseng-kuo-fan carefully considered his plans and disposed his troops with judgment, and that Tseng-kuo-chuan and his officers in person braved arrows and stones in inciting their men to the attack, such wonderful results could never have been accomplished. The joy and congratulations of the Court are such as could not be expressed.

In addition to bestowing rewards on Tseng and the rest We have ordered a list to be drawn out and laid before Us of the officers and men who have distinguished themselves. This list will await Our pleasure. In the meanwhile We have issued 400 medals, which Tseng-kuo-fan and his subordinates are to distribute,—singling out the most meritorious in order to stimulate their courage.

The rebels of every district have been looking to Nanking as a place of refuge, and now that that nest has been taken from them, the remaining bands, on hearing the news, will lose courage. Accordingly, Prince Seng has directed Kwan at Kuangchow to cross over to Huangchow, assemble troops and sweep the whole neighbourhood clear of every vestige of the rebels, and prevent their again forming a head. Tseng-kuo-fan has informed Us that his intention was to proceed to Nanking to examine into the state of affairs. As he must by this time have taken up his quarters there, We have directed him to take all proper steps for the relief of the distressed population after the victory. Should there be any remains of the rebels in Kuang-te and the neighbourhood, Tseng-kuo-chuan must remain at Nanking while Tseng-kuo-fan despatches troops, and clears the country without delay. The rebel chiefs, Li-hsiu-cheng and Hung-jen-ta, had they been mere disturbers of the peace, need not have been sent to Peking, but as they were especially distinguished for wickedness they are to be forwarded to the capital with all care. After due conviction, the utmost rigour of the law shall be visited on them in order to satisfy the just wrath of gods and men. We direct Tseng-kuo-chuan to tell off a Wei-yuan to conduct Li and Hung, and to write to the authorities of the districts through which they will pass to be ready to furnish escorts, that Our intentions be not frustrated. The longhaired rebels and the Nien-fei are about Huangchow and roam about the country, and as when Tseng-kuo-fan has left for Nanking, An-king, which is near the disturbed districts, will be without any high officer, We direct Peng to reside there and to take measures for the suppression of the rebels. If they show any intention of going eastward, Peng will place his troops at the passes, drive the rebels back and exterminate them. When Tseng-kuo-fan relieves Peng at An-king, Peng will proceed to any place that Tseng-kuo-fan may decide on for the purpose of opposing the rebels. Although on the taking of Nanking no rebels were allowed to escape, in the provinces of Hupeh, Hu nan and An-huei the rebellion still rages, and there must be no negligence on the lower part of the river. We accordingly direct Fu to carry out Our former decrees, proceed to Nanking and dispose his forces (naval and military) so as to preserve Tien-liu and the surrounding districts. If the state of the Manchu part of Nanking require the superintendence of a high officer, K'nei will proceed thither and concert measure with Fu. Li, Feng and K'uei will, as formerly ordered, take up their position at Tang-yang, Chuyung, &c., to guard against the escape of the rebels from the district of Hu-chow; while Tso will direct his forces to act in concert with the troops from Soochow in reducing Hu-chow and An-chi. Let not a rebel escape. Yang, on reaching Kiang-si, will consult with Shen on all his measures, and rid Tsung-jin, &c., of the bandits.

Now that Nanking is recovered and the rebel power is like broken tiles, to take advantage of the victory and advance the troops will prove as easy as splitting canes. The above-named high officers must unanimously combine to sweep away the things of evil omen and settle the South-west regions, and thus they will deserve Our highest rewards.

As to the occupation of the Hsei-chow and Such'ien-hsien districts, Fu will settle plans in conjunction with Wu.

Let this be forwarded at the rate of 600 li a day, for the information of all.

I (Prince Kung) have the honour to forward the above.

I (Li Futai) issue a copy of this Gazette to the officers under my authority.

THE LOSS OF THE "SOOCHOW."

(From the North-China Herald, Sept. 3.)

We are enabled to lay before our readers the following full particulars regarding the wreck of the steamer Soochow. It appears from the Captain's statement that she left the harbour of Hongkong, at 4-30 P. M. on the ninth of August under steam, with a strong wind from the South South West and heavy rain, and proceeded on her voyage. That on the eleventh of August they had a fresh gale from the North North East with thick weather and a high head sea, the vessel making but little way; and finding it impossible to progress against the strong head gale and high sea, they bore away at 11-30 for the land, intending to anchor until the force of the gale should abate. At noon they had the same strong gale and heavy head sea and thick weather; and at 3 P. M. they anchored on the outside of Owick Bay with 30 fathoms of chain on the starboard bower anchor, Chawn Point bearing North West by West, Owick Point rock bearing East by North. They then sent down the yards; and at 8 P. M. it became more moderate, but the weather still thick with drizzling rain; they sounded and found seven and a half fathoms water. That Friday the twelfth of August commenced with a strong and increasing wind from the North with thick weather; that at 6 A.M. the wind had increased to a hard gale with violent squalls of wind and rain; that at 7-45 they let go the port anchor and veered out cable to forty-five fathoms on the starboard anchor and fifteen fathoms on the port anchor and swang in the quarter boats; that the barometer was falling rapidly and the weather very thick; that they put slip ropes and buoys on both chains ready in case the wind should veer; that at 10 A.M. the gale was still increasing and the barometer still falling; that at noon it blew with terrific violence, the barometer still falling; that the wind suddenly lulled, but shortly after it came on again from the South West and blew with still greater violence; that they paid out seventy five fathoms on the port anchor and the whole of the chain on the starboard anchor, and steamed ahead at full speed; that it was still blowing with terrific violence, and at about 1-30 P.M. the starboard chain parted just before the windlass and the vessel drifted on the shore, the port anchor also giving way; that at 4-0 P.M. the stern post and propeller were knocked away, the ship striking heavily and driving upon the beach; that they sent a boat on shore for the purpose of forwarding letters to Swatow and Amoy for assistance, but that they could not induce the Chinese to take them; that they then made every preparation against an attack and set a strict watch: that Saturday the thirteenth of August commenced with a fresh gale, the vessel still ashore on the beach and striking hard; that at 8-30 A.M. they observed a steamer passing to the Westward; that they fired guns and made signals of distress, whereupon the steamer bore down to their assistance and proved to be the screw steamship Chanticleer bound to Hongkong; that for the preservation and safety of the cargo laden on board the Soochow, they, with the assistance of the boats and crew of the Chanticleer, transhipped to that vessel such portions of the cargo as they were able to save from the wreck, during which operation one of the Soochow's boats was swamped and lost. At 5 P.M. the Soochow being well up on the beach and striking hard, and finding it impossible to get her off in her then crippled state, her stern post being knocked away and her propeller broken, and several Chinese boats having made their appearance filled with Chinese, and the Chinese on shore having congregated in large numbers close to the wreck, the Chanticleer being unable to remain any longer by the vessel, and it not being safe for them to remain any longer by the ship, they abandoned her and proceeded on to Swatow, where they arrived on Sunday the fourteenth of August.

SINGAPORE.

The P. and O. Company's steamer Salsette, Captain Murray, from Bombay, with dates to the 29th ultimo, having on board the English mails of the 10th August, arrived at New Harbour on 10th instant.—Overland Straits Times, Sept. 19.

The American ship Mandarin, from China to New York U. S., with cargo of Cassia, Tea, &c., has been wrecked on the Thousand Islands near Batavia, and will probably prove a total loss. Captain and crew are saved.—Id.

We have been informed that the vessel which in our daily issue of the 24th ult. we called the Western Light, and stated as being stranded off the North end of Pulo Laut, is the Eastern Light, Captain Cruikshanks, and that she has now become a total wreck on the Alceste reef. The Captain and crew had arrived at Biliton.—Id.

H. M. gun boat, [illegible], says the Straits Times, was attacked by three piratical junks on July 10th; after 2 hours hard fighting she was obliged to take shelter near Cape Verella. The junks were lashed together lengthways and were heavily armed but they suffered much damage from the gun boat's firing. During the fight the pirates manœuvered their boats with oars. After the gun boat had been driven away, the China Merchant being in sight they made away after her but a breeze springing up she escaped.—Id.

A Warrant of apprehension was issued this morning at the instance of Captain Brown, of the British barque Azelia, against five of the crew of that vessel for mutiny. The Azelia left this for Hongkong on the 3rd inst, and when at the entrance of Rhio Straits the men refused to work, and the Captain, apprehending a mutiny, put back to Singapore. On coming into harbour assistance was rendered by H. M. S. Severn, the Commodore ordering a boat's crew to take the men into custody. We are further informed that the men were under the influence of drink, a case of gin having been discovered in their possession, minus eight flasks.—Id.

The "Isle O'May."—The British barque Isle o'May of London, which we reported in a former issue as having been found by the authorities of Banca abandoned on a reef in the Straits of Lepar, has been got off and brought into the roads of Toboali, where she now lies to be claimed by parties concerned.

This is another instance of the little trouble taken by some British shipmasters to act for the interest of Underwriters in case of shipwreck, and it would be well if Insurance Companies would enquire better into the characters of the parties in charge of the ships on which they take risks before doing so.

We do not wish, by any means, to insinuate that the master of the Isle o'May neglected his duty in this case, as we are unacquainted with what may have been done by him to save his ship, but we must be allowed to infer from the fact that the ship has been got off, that she might as well have been got off by those on board as by the authorities at Toboali.—Singapore Free Press.

CEYLON.

Trial and Sentence of George Wendt.—Today George Wendt pleaded guilty and Mr. Cayley pleaded on his behalf for a lenient sentence. No doubt his ready confession and the aid he rendered to the Bank authorities told on his behalf, for he was sentenced to only seven years' transportation.—Colombo Observer, Sept. 29.

To cover the expenses of the works in progress at the Cologne Cathedral this year, which are greater than ever, the Prussian Government has organized a public lottery.

Nowshera, 13th August 1864.

Approved and confirmed.

Hugh Rose, General,
Commander-in-Chief in India.

Simla, 26th August 1864.

Head Quarters, Simla, 22nd September 1864.

The Commander-in-Chief having had under his consideration the Duty Details of the Native Army, deems it necessary to lay down specific rules on the subject, as in some Corps the "Regimental duties" appear to His Excellency to be excessive.

The following details of guards, are therefore published for general information and guidance, in lieu of those laid down in the Military Regulations.

The Regimental Guards and Orderlies now sanctioned, are not to be exceeded, unless under exceptional circumstances, and then only with the sanction of the chief Military authority on the spot.

In special localities such as Peshawur, Rear and Bazar Guards may be necessary; where such is the case they may be sanctioned, but under ordinary circumstances these Guards may safely be dispensed with.

In the case of the Bazar Guards, however, exception is made in favor of Regiments of Bengal Cavalry, and it is left optional with Commanding Officers of this Branch of the service, to order them or not, as they may deem most advisable.

Mr. ADOLPH GABRIEL,
THE WELL-KNOWN DENTIST OF LONDON,

HAS the honour to announce to the Nobility, Gentry and Public of Bombay, that he may be consulted upon all Diseases of the Teeth, daily, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. at his Office,

No. 9, RAMPART ROW, FORT.

IMPORTANCE OF THE TEETH.

A perfect set of Teeth is indispensable to Nourishment, Health, Beauty and Voice.

AS TO NOURISHMENT,

Because the Food must be thoroughly masticated to be perfectly distributed throughout the system.

AS TO HEALTH,

Because if the mastication is imperfect, the food oppresses the organs of digestion; and if the Teeth are unsound they vitiate the normal secretions of the mouth.

AS TO BEAUTY,

Because imperfect Teeth disfigure the mouth, and also distort the regular outline of the face.

AS TO THE VOICE,

Because the tone and articulation are both damaged by the want of a complete set, and by misplaced or imperfect Teeth.

THE FUNCTIONS OF DENTAL SURGERY ARE:—

Firstly.—To direct the proper growth of the Teeth in youth.

Secondly.—To arrest the progress of decay.

Thirdly.—To reinstate Teeth which have become wanting or imperfect.

EFFICIENCY OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

The inventions of Mr. A. GABRIEL have brought the practice of his profession to so high a degree of perfection, that partial or entire sets of Teeth can be promptly and perfectly adjusted, and in such manner as to be removed and replaced at pleasure; to be worn without the least inconvenience; to present the appearance of natural Teeth of great beauty; and to incapable of any noxious effect upon the mouth.

The operations of extracting, stopping, &c., &c., performed with the almost care and attention.

CHILDREN'S TEETH REGULATED.

Misfits by other Dentists remodelled at a trifling cost.

Medical Referee—Dr. J. W. Reynalds.

The marked success which has for nearly thirty years attended the operations of this Society, justifies the Directors in calling the attention of the Public to the following advantages held out to all classes desirous of effecting Assurances on Lives.

1st. The Insured in the Society have a most satisfactory guarantee for the settlement of claims in the large Capital of the Institution, not merely subscribed, but actually invested, amounting to Seventy-Seven Lakhs of Rupees, of which more than one-half is held by the Indian Branch, and immediately available, being an amount greatly in excess of the Capital of any similar Society in India.

2nd. Avoiding hazardous competition, the Directors of the Universal have adopted Tables of Premium constructed with the utmost care. The rates for India were originally prepared from the most comprehensive data, exclusively obtained by this Society from the records of the India House, and these rates have recently been carefully investigated by two of the most eminent actuaries in London (viz., Messrs. Peter Hardy and Charles Jellicoe), and the result, after a laborious enquiry, has established the fact, that the present Indian rates are as moderate, with reference to the risk incurred, as is consistent with perfect security to the Assured, and to a Society which returns to them three-fourths of its profits.

3rd. Assurances may be effected for whole Life either on a scale entitling the Assured to participate in the profits of the Society, or at a lower rate of premium, without such participation. Also for short periods from one to seven years, on very moderate terms.

4th. The profits are ascertained each year, and declared on the second Wednesday in May, when all those insured on the profit scale, who have paid six Annual Premiums on their Policies, are entitled to participate therein.

5th. One-fifth of the ascertained profits of the five preceding years is divided between the policy-holders and Shareholders—three-fourths or seventy-five per cent. to the former, and one-fourth to the latter. The remaining four-fifths are set apart to enter into the average of the succeeding years, and thus to provide against unforeseen contingencies.

6th. The Assured have the option of appropriating their profits to the immediate reduction of their Premiums, or as a bonus to be added to the sum assured.

7th. The practice of an annual division of profits without partnership liability, "distributes the profits with more regularity and justice than any other." This beneficial system is in many respects preferable to triennial, or other modes of division, and the Directors feel satisfied that it only requires to be better known to secure a very large share of public patronage.

8th. The first division of profits took place in 1840—the annual reduction of premium has averaged 44 per cent; a reduction of 47½ per cent. was declared at the last Annual General Meeting on all Policies entitled to participate dated prior to the 9th May 1856.

9th. It is most important that all intending Assurers should consider well not only the rate of Premium primarily charged, but also the percentage of profits actually granted (annually by this Office) in reduction of such Premium.

10th. On return of an Insurer to Europe, either for a temporary or permanent residence and without reference to the state of health, subject, however, to written notice being given at the London Office, the Premium is reduced to the English rate, corresponding with the age when the Assurance was originally effected, and in the case of participating Policies the profits are allowed on the English rate of Premium, whereby Indian Assurers can continue their Policies in England on most favorable terms. When parties assured at the Indian rates return to England, they are required to give notice in writing of their arrival, at the Office in London; and in no case will their Premiums be reduced to the English rates until they next fall due, after the receipt of such written notice.

11th. Military Officers holding Civil appointments are allowed to subscribe at the Civil rate of Premium, on notice being given to the Agents of the Society.

12th. Premiums are payable either annually, half-yearly or quarterly, and on certain conditions monthly. A grace of 28 days is allowed for such payments, and claims are paid, should death occur during such days of grace. Policies can be revived within three months after the Premium has become due on proof of health and payment of fine, and within six months at the discretion of the Board.

13th. Policies for the whole Term of Life, which have been in force for the full period of five years, will be purchased by the Society, or loans granted thereon to the extent of two-thirds of their estimated value.

14th. Medical referees are remunerated by the Society by a fee of Sixteen Rupees on proposal for Assurances not under Co.'s Rs. 2,500; but for any less sum the fee to be settled by the applicant.

15th. At the period of the last Annual Valuation, the Assets of the Society were ascertained to be upwards of £770,000. The amount of Policies in force about £2,200,000, and the Annual Income upwards of £120,000.

Tables of Rates, Forms and Instructions for effecting Assurances, can be obtained on application to the Agent and Secretaries in Calcutta, or to Mr. A. W. Spence, Allahabad; Messrs. J. Stowell and Co., Agra; Messrs. Peake, Allen & Co., Simla, Lahore and Umballa; Mr. G. Ludlam, Meerut; Mr. W. H. Marshall, Delhi.

Medical Referee—Dr. J. W. REYNALDS.

After the operation of nearly 30 years, the Directors feel entitled, with great confidence, to invite the attention of the Public to the marked success which has attended this Society, and the strong claims it possesses to the confidence and support of all classes desirous of effecting Assurance on Lives.

Combining the advantages of a mutual and proprietary Company, and without attempting a rash competition with other Offices, it has pursued a steady progressive course, affording all the benefits which, consistently with the security to Assurers and Assured, can possibly be given.

The Tables of Rates for India have been accurately calculated from the Records of the late East India Company, and are as moderate as is consistent with perfect security.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| The total number of Policies issued from the commencement of the Society to the end of the year 1862 were 7,812 for | ... | £6,848,181 | 5 | 0 |
| And the amount of claims paid during the same period was | ... | £1,250,834 | 7 | 0 |
| The assets of the Society in England and India on the 1st December, 1862, were | ... | £792,153 | 8 | 11 |
| Of which there was held by the Indian Branch | ... | £442,940 | 5 | 10 |

At the declaration of profits on the 13th May, 1863, a reduction of 47½ per Cent. on the Premiums entitled to participation was declared,—

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| So that the Annual Premium of an Individual insuring on the Profit Scale at the age of 30, in the sum of Rs. 10,000, would be at the Civil rate, | ... | Rs. | 480 | 0 0 |
| Deduct 47½ per Cent. for Profit | ... | " | 228 | 0 0 |
| | | Rs. | 252 | 0 0 |
| At the reduced English rate | ... | Rs. | 246 | 0 8 |
| Deduct 47½ per Cent. for Profit | ... | " | 116 | 13 11 |
| | | Rs. | 129 | 2 9 |

The Rates for short Terms are as low as those of any other Assurance Companies. Medical Referees are remunerated by the Society by a Honorarium of Rs. 16 on proposals for Assurances above Rs. 2,500, whether accepted or not; but on all sums under that figure, the Applicant has to pay the Fee for the Medical Report.

Tables of Rates, Forms &c., may be had on application to the Local Director at Allahabad; Messrs. J. Stowell and Co., Agra; Messrs. Peake, Allen & Co., Simla, Lahore and Umballa; Mr. G. Ludlam, Meerut; Mr. W. H. Marshall, Delhi, or to

Holloway's Pills, purify the Blood.—When the cause of disease is seated in the blood, nerves, stomach, liver or bowels, no treatment will be found so effective, no medicine so valuable, as these purifying, alterative and aperient Pills. Innocent in their nature, they never can do harm to the weakest constitution. Cleansing and invigorating in their effects they produce an immediate amelioration of many of the most painful and most dangerous symptoms which can afflict the human frame. Holloway's Pills are reliable remedies. In multitudes of cases where the usual round of prescriptions had been vainly tried, and death itself seemed imminent, Holloway's Pills have acted marvellously in arresting the disease and gradually restoring health.
